ANNA MARIA ANTONIEWICZ

It is with deep sorrow that we learned that a member of Editorial Board of the Journal of Animal and Feed Sciences, Prof. Dr. hab. Anna Maria Antoniewicz, passed away on August 25th 1997.

Anna M. Antoniewicz graduated from the Jagiellonian University of Kraków, and for all of her professional life was with the Institute of Animal Production in Kraków, where she headed the Laboratory of Feed Evaluation. Her most significant scientific achievements were undoubtedly in the development of methods for feed evaluation systems, and nitrogen and carbohydrate metabolism in ruminants. She dedicated much of her valuable time to the training of young scientists and to popularizing the latest achievements of science among people in agricultural professions. Her personal warmth won over everyone who had ever visited her laboratory and earned her many life-long friends world-wide.

She had been a member of Editorial Board of Journal of Animal and Feed Sciences since 1991, where she made invaluable contributions in evaluating papers submitted for publication. With her passing we lost a distinguished scientist, colleague and friend. The position vacated by her will be difficult to fill.
